On March 13, BREONNA TAYLOR was murdered by Louisville Metro Police while she slept under a so-called “no-knock warrant” for a crime located more than 10 miles away from her home. Her killers have not been charged.

On May 25, GEORGE FLOYD was pinned face down on the ground and murdered by police in Minneapolis, Minnesota over false forgery accusation. Floyd was unarmed, complied with the officers’ orders, and begged for his life while Derek Chauvin, who has shot 3 civilians and has had over 12 police brutality complaints filed against him during his career, kneeled on Floyd’s throat for 8 minutes and 46 seconds. Chauvin kept his knee on Floyd’s neck for three full minutes after Floyd stopped moving and nearly two minutes after he stopped breathing or speaking.

On May 27, TONY MCDADE was murdered by police while unarmed in Tallahassee, Florida. The identities of his killers are being protected by the police department and they have not been charged.

About 1 in 1000 black men and boys in America can expect to die at the hands of police. That makes them 2.5 times more likely than white men and boys to die during an encounter with cops.

“This doesn’t happen in our community!”

In the state of New Jersey, a black person is more than three times more likely to face police force than someone who is white.

In Millville, black people face police force at more than six times the rates of white people.

In South Orange, it is nearly ten times.

In Lakewood, it is an astronomical 22 times.

Yet, there is no statewide system to track police brutality in New Jersey and no standard practices in reporting or handling police brutality complaints among individual departments.

How Can I Help?

Protests across the nation calling for justice have been met with rubber bullets, tear gas, beatings, ICE detainments, open fire, and police-incited arson and property destruction.
